ABSTRACT

WADZIBAH NAS. The Influence of Leadership, Organisational Culture, and Emotional Intelligence on Work Satisfaction through the Performance of the Teachers of State Senior Secondary Schools in Makassar (supervised by Idayanti Nursyamisi and Andi Ratna Sari Dewi).

The study aims to analyse the influence of leadership, organisational culture, and emotional intelligence on the work satisfaction through the performance of the teacher of the state senior secondary schools in Makassar.

The data were collected by means of questionnaire distribution and path analysis with SPSS was used to study the sample consisting of 120 persons in the school.

The study indicates that leadership, organisational culture, and emotional intelligence have a positive and significant influence on the teacher's performance and the work satisfaction in the state senior secondary schools in Makassar. The analysis reveals that the leadership, organisational culture, and emotional intelligence have an impact on the teachers' performance through the work satisfaction at the senior secondary schools in Makassar constituting the hypothesis of the study.

Keywords: leadership, organisational culture, emotional intelligence, work satisfaction, and performance